FSDA DISPLAY CASE DEDICATION

Agenda

• Opening: Russell Touhey, FSDA President
  • Salute to the Flag
  • Honored Guests:
    • Families of:
      • Sarah Judd, Fire Museum Director

• Welcome: John Sudnik, FDNY Asst. Chief

• Program: Jack J. Murphy, FSDA Chairman
Welcome

John Sudnik
Assistant Chief
Manhattan Borough Command
City of New York Fire Department

Since Local Law-5 of 1973, a fire safety director has been a steadfast life safety centurion to building occupants.

One of the main exhibit features is to honor the sacrifices made by heroic individuals:
- Fire Safety Directors
- Fire Warden Teams and
- Concerned Citizens
on September 11, 2001
Jim Corrigan, 60, of Little Neck, LI, was a New York firefighter for 25 years, retiring as Captain of Engine 320 in 1994. He was the Director of Fire and Life Services for the World Trade Center Complex. On September 11, with 3 other fire safety directors, he rushed to the day care center to evacuate the children. All of the children and only one of these courageous men survived the collapse of the building.

Lawrence Boisseau, 36, of Freehold, NJ, was a fire safety director at the World Trade Center since 1993. On Sept. 11, he helped knock out the windows of a ground-floor day care center at the Trade Center. That done, he was directed to go to the command post on the ground floor of the South Tower. There, he helped direct fleeing office workers and firefighters before the South Tower collapsed.

Richard Fitzsimons, 57, of Lynbrook, LI, was a fire safety director at the World Trade Center, where he conducted drills and planned evacuations. He had just completed evacuating the children from the day care center and was last seen heading toward a sub-basement in the World Trade Center to assist in the rescue effort.

Philip T. Hayes, 67, of East Northport, LI, was a New York firefighter in Engine 217 from 1959 to 1979. He had worked as a fire safety director at the World Trade Center since 1995. On September 11, he rescued children from the day care center in 5 World Trade Center. Then, as debris fell from the sky, he ran into the south tower to redirect people out of harm's way.
Fire Safety Director
William X. Wren

Bill Wren, 61, of Lynbrook, L.I., was a New York firefighter in Ladder 166 for 25 years. In 1993, having retired three years earlier, took the job as fire safety in the World Trade Center. Bill and a small group of fire safety workers rushed to tower five to assist in the evacuation of a day care center there. Then, Bill and the others, headed back to the south tower.

Fire Safety Director
Robert J. Mayo

Robert Mayo, 46, of Marlboro, N.J., was a fire safety director at the World Trade Center. Stationed in Building 4, he successfully helped evacuate that structure. He was last seen in the lobby of the North Tower shortly before it collapsed, working to keep calm and order as he helped evacuate thousands of people from the building.

The World Trade Center Heroic Fire Wardens who perished on September 11, 2001

Fire Wardens

North Tower
Patricia A. McAneny, 94th FL

South Tower
Jose J. Marrero, 84th FL
Rose Mary Riso, 86th FL
John M. Griffin, 88th FL
David L. Fodor, 90th FL
Ron C. Fazio, 99th FL
Mayra Valdes-Rodriquez, 103 FL

Patricia A. McAneny
Jose J. Marrero
The World Trade Center Heroic Fire Wardens who perished on September 11, 2001

Fire Wardens

North Tower
Patricia A. McAneney, 94th FL

South Tower
Jose J. Marrero, 84th FL
Rose Mary Riso, 86th FL
John M. Griffin, 88th FL
David L. Fodor, 90th FL
Ron C. Fazio, 99th FL

Mayra Valdes-Rodriquez, 103 FL

Rose Mary Riso

John M. Griffin

David L. Fodor

Ron Fazio with his daughter, Lauren

Mayra Valdes-Rodriquez
The World Trade Center Heroic Citizens who perished on September 11, 2001

CITIZENS

Richard Rescorla
59th-74th floors
Morgan Stanley Dean Witter
Colonel (Ret.) U.S. Army

Department of Homeland Security’s (DHS) Rick Rescorla the 1st recipient of the first national resilience award for superior leadership and innovation by a non-governmental individual or organization who exemplifies the qualities National Award is named for Col. Rescorla

The World Trade Center Heroic Citizens who perished on September 11, 2001

CITIZENS

Welles R. Crowther, 104th floor
Sandler, O’Neill & Partners
“The Red Bandanna” Firefighter,
Nyack Fire Department

Boston College football team wear red bandannas on their helmets, cleats and gloves to honor Welles Crowther.
The World Trade Center Heroic Public Servants who perished on September 11, 2001

Their unwavering duty and valiant efforts along with the members of the:

Fire Department of the City of New York and New York City Police Department
And the Port Authority of NY/NJ Police Department helped save many lives that day.

343 23 37

Also on display is the History of the FSDA and WTC materials:

ITEMS
- Local Law-5 1973
- FSDA 10th & 20th Anniv. Journals
- Fire Engineering Magazine Cover
  - The FE Nov 2002 article highlights: Actions of FSD’s & FW’s on 9/11
- WTC Fire Safety Guide
- WTC Fire Warden Hat
- WTC Fire Warden Flashlight

DONOR
- Zygmunt Stazewski, P.E.
- Jack J. Murphy
- Pennwell Corporation
- Larry Byrnes, FDNY BC (Ret)
- Nick Gaudiosi, FDNY Capt (Ret)
- Thomas Byrnes, WTC
This 9/11 display case will serve as a daily reminder that our freedom is not without great cost and that their sacrifice will never be forgotten.

Our loved ones would be proud that these individuals have influenced many into military service, public service and for citizens to take a more active role within local communities.

THANK YOU FOR COMING